

Conspiracy theorists ask why we haven't heard about Dolly the Sheep or the technology behind her since 1997. You know why? Sheep make their own sheep. That technology wasn't useful at all!

Get in Line

Just think: if they made cocaine legal, we could all go to the bathroom whenever we wanted. If they don't intend to legalize it anytime soon, they should at least make a law that people on cocaine are only allowed to talk to other people on cocaine. Don't believe me? Get trapped being talked at by one guy about the similarities between the persecution of Elon Musk and Jesus and you will.

RETRACTIONS:

- Last quarter, we published an anecdote about the Scrub Daddy sponge line being used as a sex toy without a title. It has come to our attention that the piece should have been titled "Scrub One Out."
- We would like to apologize to any indigenous Americans offended by our Spring 2023 piece, "Good Names for a Jewish Indian."
- Volume 1 Issue 3 was mistakenly labeled "Fall 2023." Unfortunately, there is really no excuse for accidentally labeling the quarter beginning in July as Fall.

BALD-HEADED MAN TELLS BALD-FACED LIE:

Mayor McFarland has ordered the removal of all newspaper and free publication distribution boxes from the square after only three issues of Murfreesboro's Least Favorite Zine, Farts Anonymous. Mayor McFarland was allegedly tired of seeing cartoons of his ugly head circulated during his reign. Says the mayor, "I do not look like that." (He does)

I do not look like this!

The Mad Chatter

The other day I was home alone and got so bored that I watched a video of a guy playing with wind up chattering teeth. Sometimes he would wind them up and let them chatter on the table. Sometimes he would wind them up and let them chatter in his hand. I could never tell what would come next, but I did know it would involve wind up chattering teeth. Anyways, that was a great way to spend 45 seconds, which is about the same amount of time I imagine I would have played with a set of chattering teeth had I owned a pair myself.

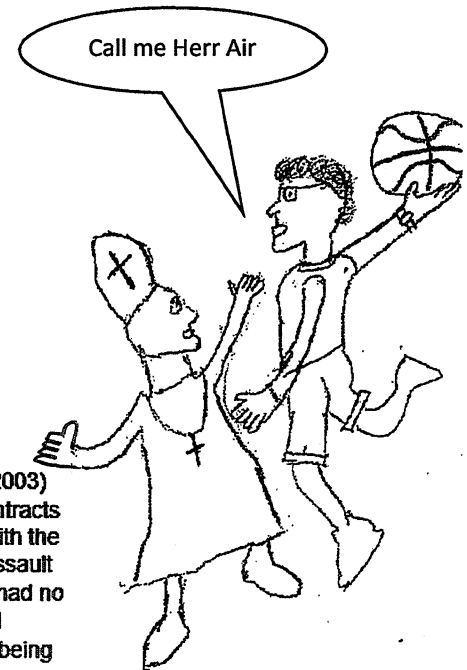

Third Eye Blind

Know what I'm tired of? People acting like psychedelics are a great way to expand your mental health and learn about yourself. I've done a comical amount of psychedelics for someone with no money and you know what I've learned? Dark Side of the Moon sounds bitchin' on acid. Know what else I've learned? Nothing! If you want a new appreciation for "Great Gig in the Sky," take psychedelics. If you hate your father, go to therapy.

Ten people have been officially named as honorary members of the Harlem Globetrotters:

- Henry Kissinger (1976)
- Bob Hope (1977)
- Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (1989)
- Whoopi Goldberg (1990)
- Nelson Mandela (1996)
- Jackie Joyner-Kersey (1999)
- Pope John Paul II (2000)
- Jesse Jackson (2001)
- Pope Francis (2015)
- Robin Roberts (2015)

In addition, Bill Cosby (1972) and Magic Johnson (2003) were each signed to honorary $1-a-year lifetime contracts with the Globetrotters. When Cosby's association with the team was the subject of criticism following sexual assault allegations, the Globetrotters stated that they have had no association with him for decades. All that to say, Bill Cosby was the first honorary Globetrotter, but after being stripped of the title for unspeakable crimes, that honor officially belongs to Henry Kissinger

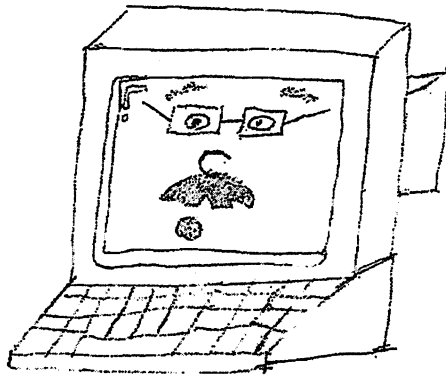

Splashback

I tried to recreate the joy I got as a child from jumping in a puddle, but I learned the joy came less from the splish-splashing and more from my mother screaming at me not to jump in the puddle. Now I've got wet pants and the only person mad about it is me.

ASK FARTY

DEAR FARTY: How can such a terrible zine keep running for an entire year? They don't charge anything for this and if there are any ads, they must have been subliminal. Plus, it STINKS! Do Murfreesboro's youth really have nothing better to do? - TIRED OF TRASH

DEAR TIRED OF THE TRASH: You are correct, typically a publication as subpar as this would not be fit to publish an entire year's worth of issues. However, when a couple of egoists with self-satisfaction as their only motivation set their minds to something, anything is possible. Even better, when those two assholes believe themselves to be the funniest people they know, magic can happen. (Well, it could)

Marty the Farts Anonymoose Takes a Trip to One of Downtown's Newest Breakfast Joints.

I recently visited Richard's Kitchen, where the Blue Porch and Digital Planet used to be. I ordered the bologna egg and cheese biscuit and the potato salad, or as I call it, the breakfast of champions. The potato salad was worse than any potato salad I could ever imagine. Normally, a potato salad's fault is too much of something. Too much salt. Too much mustard. Too much vinegar. Never could I imagine a potato salad as bland and flavorless as Richard's. If there was anything other than potato, mayonnaise, and egg whites, it must have been overwhelmed by the potato, mayonnaise, and egg whites. On the other hand, the bologna, egg, and cheese biscuit is the best in town.

The reason Dodge's gas is the cheapest in town is because they are trying to attract a customer base they have long struggled to capture: people who own cars. Further, many don't realize the reason Dodge's has the slowest pumps in town is to sell chicken. Pumping ten gallons in ten minutes sure can work up an appetite!

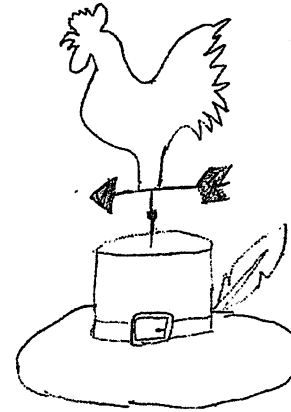

Tired of the same old pretending to close, mattress store style, City Café has decided to rebrand as the Hard Rock City Café in hopes of boosting sales. Farts Anonymous takes us inside the new Hard Rock City Café for a preview of the fabulous Murfreesbilia the owners anticipate will have people clamoring for their frozen biscuits and weekly meatloaf.
